Come to Me, Darling.

The beautiful verses subjoined were written by Mr. Joseph Brennan, one of the most gifted young Irishmen that ever plunged into so abortive a revolution as was that of 1848:

Come to me, darling, I'm lonely without thee,
Day-time and night-time I'm dreaming about thee,
Night-time and day-time in dreams I behold thee,
Unwelcome the waking that ceases to fold thee;
Come to me, darling, my sorrow to lighten,
Come in thy beauty to bless and to brighten,
Come in thy womanhood, meekly and lowly,
Come in thy lovingness, queenly and holy.

Swallows shall flit 'round the desolate ruin,
Telling of spring and its joyous renewing:
And thoughts of thy love and its manifest treasure,
Are circling my heart with the primrose of pleasure,
Oh, spring of my spirit! Oh, May of my bossom;
Shine out of soul till it burgeon and blossom;
The waste of my life has a rare root within it,
And thy fondness alone to the sunlight can win it.

Features lit up with a reflex of heaven,
Eyes like the skies of sweet Erin our mother,
Where sunshine and shadow are changing each other;
Smiles coming seldom, but childlike and simple,
And opening their eyes from the heart of a dimple;
Oh! thanks to the Saviour that even the seeming
Is left to the exile to brighten his dreaming.

You have been glad when you knew I was gladened;
Dear, are you sad to know I am saddened?
Our hearts ever answer in tune and in time, love,
As octave to octave or rhyme unto rhyme, love,
I cannot smile, but your cheeks will be glowing;
You cannot weep, but my tears will be flowing;
You will not linger when I shall have died, love;
And I could not live without you by my side, love.

Come to me, darling, ere I die of my sorrow;
Rise on my gloom like the sun of to-morrow;
Strong, swift and true as the words which I speak, love:
With a song at your lip and a smile on your cheek, love;
Come, for my heart in your absence is dreary;
Haste, for my spirit is sickened and weary;
Come to my arms which alone shall caress thee,
Come to the heart that is throbbing to press thee;

The Story-Teller.

Under the Maples;

—OR—

THE STRANGE BEAUTY.

BY G. W. STANTON.

"YOU remember Mrs. Laurens, Charley dear, she who was once Miss Walcott!" said the languid Mrs. Easton, resting back in her chair, and smoothing the gray curls from her fat face.

"Well, what of her? Is her husband dead? Is she in the market again? Of course, she is, I shall be delighted to marry her at sight! In fact, my dear mother, I'd marry anybody to please you."

There was an undercurrent of sarcasm in the words which was not especially gratifying to Mrs. Easton, but she allowed it to pass unnoticed, and replied:

"Oh, no, her husband is alive, and they are both very happy. I was about to remark that they will arrive here in a few days, bringing with them three lovely children—"

"Ah! anything else?" interposed Charley, turning partially around, and twisting his blonde mustache with an air of provoking nonchalance.

"Yes—but you don't seem interested!" answered his mother, taking her fan from her lap and using it vigorously.

"Pray go on," said the young man, with assumed animation. "Perhaps there is a young lady in the case!"

"Yes, there is!" assented Mrs. Easton, with all the enthusiasm of a professional match-maker. "And a beautiful creature she is too—for everybody says so! I have not seen her since she was young, for you know the Walcotts have lived in Europe for the last nine years."

"She is then a Walcott, I presume?"

"Yes, Mrs. Laurens' youngest sister.—She has been all the rage in Paris for the last two seasons, and has countless offers from the rich and titled, but has refused them all, and come home free and heart whole! One week from Thursday she will be here, and—Charley dear, come and sit down on this ottoman—I want to talk to you."

With a slight shrug of his shoulders the young man obeyed.

"Now, my son, listen to me," said Mrs. Easton, stroking his hair with the top of her fan, "and don't, for pity's sake, interrupt me with any of your dry wit! Charley, it is not unknown to you that you are handsome! Women like brain, it is true, but they are generally caught by beauty. Now I have no doubt you will like Delia Walcott very much, and if she likes you, why—"

"There must be another match made, I suppose! Oh, bah!" exclaimed Charley, jumping up and shaking himself like a Newfoundland dog.

"What an impatient boy you are! I didn't say anything of the kind, did I?"

"No, but you would if I had given you time!"

"Dear me, you are incorrigible! I might indeed have referred to the fact that Delia's dowry will be somewhat near a hundred thousand dollars, and—and that our fortune, not large, is growing rapidly smaller. We must consider these things, my son, and—"

"Be as mercenary as we are foolish!" interposed Charley with earnest contempt. "To be plain, mother, this sort of thing is played out! A moment ago you indirectly said that my beauty would get me a wife, and implied that I was a fool—for any man is a fool who depends on his hair, mustache and cloth, to win woman's heart! I have been an idler! Why? Because I was brought up to be. But it is all over. You have money enough to last you. I will pay my way from this hour, and Delia can marry a Frenchman or an Esquimaux for aught I care!"

"Charles Easton you are beside yourself!"

"Then insanity is sweet!"

"Hold your tongue!" exclaimed the mother losing her patience. "I'll not listen to such folly! Why, everybody would think that we were penniless, to see you at work! And I am sure it would be the death of me. I never could bear the mortification—never!"

"Pshaw!" said Charley, resistlessly.—"You talk like a duchess, instead of an American matron."

And turning on his heel he hurried from the house. Since the moment that he had become of marriageable age, his mother had planned and connived to match him with some heiress, but had failed through his perverseness. Nearly every day in the week he had been obliged to listen to reproaches and lectures on this, his mother's hobby, and now he was intensely disgusted. Mrs. Easton was not weak mentally, but idleness had rendered her a great bore.

It is a noticeable fact that persons who have no regular employment for their minds usually grasp at things most shallow, and, to use a common phrase, run them straight into the ground.

Charles Easton had the elements of manhood in him, but he had never felt them until this hour. Now he was determined to see what they were good for.

Proceeding at once to New York, he directed his steps to a large mercantile house on Canal street, kept by one of his father's friends.

"Ah! Easton my boy, glad to see you," said Mr. Mervin, cordially. "Fresh from Maplewood and the delights of summer parties I suppose."

"Parties be hanged! How is business?" yawned Charley; removing his segar from his mouth, and leaning lazily against the desk.

Mr. Mervin looked at him regretfully, and shook his head, muttering:

"Not much like his father."

"Did you speak?"

"I mumbled something, yes. The fact is, Easton, I'm annoyed. I've lost my assistant book-keeper, and I feel bad over it. He got into low society, and went down fast. I remonstrated in vain. Yesterday I was notified of a deficit of three hundred dollars. He confessed to the larceny, and I set him adrift. I hadn't the heart to prosecute him. I wish—but never mind—it would be useless to talk to you"

"It depends on what you talk about," answered Charley, carelessly. "Now the last race at Saratoga, or the sailing match at Newport would be interesting; but day-books and ledgers—bah!"

He knew very well that this would render his friend eloquent, as it had many times before, ever the benefit of labor. He was not in error. Mr. Mervin read him a long sermon on folly of idleness, and concluded by offering him the vacant salary of eighteen hundred dollars a year.

"I'll take it with many thanks," said Charley, spiritedly.

"Now you talk like a man—there's a drop of your father's blood in you somewhere, I guess!" answered Mr. Mervin, with evident pleasure. "You may begin to-morrow, and if you are not tired by night you let me know."

"The feeling will be welcome. I have had enough of ennui," said Charley, earnestly.

And in two or weeks as was very natural, he had enough of weariness; but he pursued his new line of conduct unfalteringly. He had received two letters from his mother in the meantime, both filled with shallow regrets and superficial grief. The Walcotts had not visited her, and she attributed her action to his having disgraced himself by becoming an employee. She hoped that he would think in sotitude how much sorrow he had caused by his waywardness.

These epistles, so full of dangerous sophistry had no effect upon the young man. He pitied his mother for her vapidity.

"Easton, who is that girl I have seen you walking with on Broadway?" queried Mr. Mervin, one day about a week later.

"Well, I hardly know myself," answered the young man, looking up from the ledger. "I became acquainted with her in a very romantic sort of way. You see, she was standing on the sidewalk waiting for a stage, when I saw one of our well-dressed pickpockets attempt to practice his art on her. I invited him out into the street—"

"That means you kicked him out!" interposed Mr. Mervin, laughing.

"You may translate it as you like! Of course she thanked me, and I in return hailed a stage for her. Since then I have met her a few times at the military establishment, where she is employed, and walked as far as Union square with her—she would never let me go any farther. Her name I have not the slighest idea of, she has positively refused to give any. Now you know as much about her as I do."

"Hump! What do you think your mother would say to this acquaintance?" asked Mr. Mervin.

"She would condemn it, of course. But there is one I am confident of, that the girl is worthy of all respect. Her station in life I care nothing about."

"There's more of the father showing itself," mused Mr. Mervin, approvingly, but made no reply, and there the subject was dropped.

The next evening at six, Charles was once more on Broadway, waiting for the strange beauty in whom he felt a peculiar interest. But she did not come, and he was forced to acknowledge to himself that he was much disappointed.

A week passed and he neither saw nor heard of her. Perhaps she was sick, and without proper care. The thought saddened him, and yet could do nothing, for he was ignorant even of her name.

"Easton, suppose you go up to Mrs. Laurens with me this evening? She's an old friend of your family, I believe?" said Mr. Mervin.

"Laurens again! Can't I escape that family?" thought Charles, irritably, but replied:

"So they are here! When did they return from Europe?"

"About two weeks ago, I believe. They have hardly been out of the house, however, for everyone of the children has been sick. Mrs. Laurens is not the woman to leave her child to mercenary nurses, so she had to break many engagements, one to your mother among the number, if I mistake not."

Charles nodded carelesely, and there the conversation terminated.

At eight o'clock that evening, the two gentiemen were shown into Mrs. Laurens' elegant drawing room, and greeted by that lady with earnest cordiality. The wonderful Delia was not present, and Charles was very thankful, for he had become utterly sick of the name, and had not the least desire to see the person.

"I want you to look at my babies, Charley," said Mrs. Laurens, in her earnest, graceful way. "They are asleep, else I would bring them down. But you will pardon the informality, I am sure."

The young man inclined his head, and followed his hostess to the nursery. Patiently, if not sympathetically, he listened to the mother's rhapsodies over her darlings, and when she had concluded, he muttered something about their being very beautiful. Bachelors' comments on children are always so stupid! As they turned to leave the room, a young girl entered, and paused abruptly, as she noted the presence of a stranger. Though the light was dim, Charles found but little difficulty in recognizing his unknown acquaintance.

"My governess, Miss——, Mr. Easton," said Mrs. Laurens.

"I congratulate you on your good fortune," said Charley, in a low, sincere voice, as he held the maid's hand, an instant within his own. She murmured her thanks, and moved toward the crib.

"It is strange I can't get hold of that girl's name," thought Charley, as he reentered the drawing-room. "Mrs. Laurens mumbled it as I never heard her mumble before. Well, they are going to see mother next week, and then I'll find out. I won't go near the house to-morrow, for that lovely ogre, Delia, will be there."

Five days later, and after he had received two letters from his mother, urging him to come home, Charley embarked on the noon train for Maplewood. When Kempton was reached—a station a few miles south of his native town—he went out on the platform to look around, and the first object that met his gaze was a neat little phæton containing Mrs. Laurens' three children and the governess. With a smothered exclamation of delight, he leaped off the car, walked around to the side of the depot and greeted his eccentric acquaintance. Her eyes lighted as he spoke, and a soft flush mantled each cheek.

"Your mother is expecting you home," she said. "You had better run back to the train. I'd ask you to ride to Maplewood with me, but I'm only a governess, and excuse me—your mother is very proud."

"Yes, but never mind that. Is Mrs. Laurens with you? No? Ah? I'm so glad. I can talk with you a minute. Do you ride often this way?"

"Yes, the scenery is more beautiful than on any other road."

"Then I'll stay here a few days, and ride out horseback every morning to meet you, provided, of course, that the suggestion meets with your approbation. Excuse me, but I wish to know more of you—to be honest, I like you very much."

"You flatter me! I fear you have not well considered your proposition. It embodies a double deception—you to your mother—I to Mrs. Laurens."

"And yet it is harmless. I do not wish you to go home. You know Delia, of course?"

"Yes."

"Well, I don't, and, what is more, I don't want to. I'd run away from her as I would from a bear, for the simple reason that two or three foolish persons have suggested that we would make a good match. Bah! How I hate such meddling! Come, you will consent?"

"Yes," with a merry laugh and a toss of the stately head.

Three days passed, and Mrs. Easton wondered why Charley did not come. And the governess wondered why she drove so much faster to reach Kempton every morning, and Charley wondered if his little friend cared enough for him to take his name. He resolved to ascertain at once. So on the fourth morning, while riding along her side, he thrust a paper into her hand, on which were written these words: "My heart is yours. Will you be my wife?"—He saw her face flush as she read it, saw her head bend lower, and her fingers more nervously on her reins.

"Is it no or yes?" he queried, in a deep anxious voice.

"Yes," she murmured, and for an instant raised her eyes to his; answering glance was more eloquent than words. For a few moments they rode on in silence, both engrossed with thoughts new and sweet. At length it was time for the governess to return, and just after her lover had parted with her he remembered that he had forgotten to ask her name. It was provoking! Was man ever engaged to woman before, without knowing her name?

The next morning he was again on the road to meet his affianced, but, instead, he saw his mother and Mrs. Laurens in the family carriage, coming toward him rapidly. He halted, and awaited their approach. Mrs. Easton's first word was a reproach the second a complaint, and the third a command to her son to turn about and accompany them to Maplewood. He obeyed gracefully and in silence. He saw neither the governess nor Delia that day, but the next forenoon, while walking on the law he beheld Mrs. Laurens and the governess under the maples, the former with her arm around her oldest boy, and the latter clasping the hand of the youngest, while the little girl sat on the green sward between them.

He advanced slowly, with no more definite purpose than to look upon the face of the one he loved.

"Ah! good morning, Charley," said Mrs. Laurens, pleasantly. "This is my first opportunity. I am happy to introduce you to my sister Delia."

"What! Delia Is it possible?"

Charley leaned against a tree in amazement and confusion.

"Shall I release you Charley? the sweet voice asked.

Never—never, my darling! You are the governess of my heart, if not of your sister's children!"

And thus, through the unintentional aid of Mr. Mervin and Mrs. Laurens, Mrs. Easton's wishes were accomplished, and she was rendered perfectly happy.

The Press Slanders—Interesting Correspondence—A Convincing Answer.

We publish below a letter from State Treasurer Mackey, and a statement from E. M. Lewis, Esq., Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank, and W. L. Schaffer, Girard Bank, which speak for themselves, in refutation of the Press's libels upon the accounting officers of the State.

LETTER FROM STATE TREASURER MACKEY.

PITTSBURGH, June 26, 1872.—Dear Sir:—On Monday last a long communication appeared in the Press of your city, making very serious charges against the management of the Treasury of the State, and alleging, among other things, that the securities belonging to the Sinking Fund of the State were being used for the benefit of individuals, and that an examination would prove that there was a large deficiency of the public funds.

Knowing your capability to examine accounts, I have deemed it proper, and herewith take the liberty of asking you, in connection with Mr. Joseph Patterson, W. L. Schaffer and A. J. Drexel, to name a day when you can meet me at Harrisburg, and examine the affairs of the Treasury and of the Sinking Fund.

I trust that your engagements will permit you to comply with this request. I can assure you that I shall take it as a personal favor to have you do so. Awaiting your reply, I am

Yours truly,
R. W. MACKEY.

Advances to June 30, 1872 not yet audited; including bills for printing, salaries, and advances to different Departments of the State Government, &c., for which vouchers were exhibited.....	$39,819 97
Total.....	$2,129,118 66

Say two millions, one hundred and twenty-nine thousand, one hundred and eighteen 66-100 dollars, which corresponds with the balance sheet taken from the books of the Department on July 9, 1872.

We also, at the same time and place, examined the following described bonds of the Sinking Fund Department, viz:

Bonds of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, 4 bonds, Nos. 42, 52, 62, 72, each $1,000,000, is.....	$4,000,000
16 bonds, Nos. 17 to 32 inclusive, $100,00 is.....	1,600,000
1 bond, No. 75 for $300,000, is.....	300,000
Total.....	$5,900,000

Bonds of the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company, guaranteed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the Northern Central Railroad Company, and the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad Company:

35 Bonds Nos. 1 to 35 inclusive, for $100,000 each, is..... $3,500,000

Total of Bonds in the Sinking Fund Department..... $9,400,000

These Bonds are all printed, "payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," are not negotiable, and correspond in amount with the Auditor General's report of December, 1871, to the Legislature. See page 189.

There is also detailed in the said report a long list of old Turnpike, Bridge and other Companies' of stocks, which are supposed to be of little or no value.

Horace Greeley's Bargain.

Pledges Given to Restore the Late Rebels to Power—His Administration to be Devoted to Their Interests.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., August 9.—The following are Gen. Hodge's exact words at the Greeley meeting in Lexington, on the 2d ult.:

"I have devoted a lifetime to the principles of the Democratic party. I have grown gray in the advocacy of those principles, and each year the conviction has grown deeper that its fundamental principles are the true foundation stones for this Government. I have seen upon the battle field thousands throw away their lives in defence of these principles. The graves of the gallant Southern dead who sleep upon every hill-side in the South, over whose graves the night winds sigh, are reminders to me of the love for these principles which still lingers in my heart. The second passage in Mr. Greeley's letter means that John C. Breckinridge and other chivalrous sons of the South shall be restored to their former positions of power and influence. Looking back upon the once shattered and fruitless hopes of the South, I now see that the equal rights and sovereignty of the States shall be restored, and my comrades of the lost cause have not died in vain. This will be a victory for that for which they fought. Mr. Greeley promised to do all he could to aid us when we get a majority in Congress. I object to Grant because he is a Republican; because he is a member of that party which waged successfully the contest against my brethren of the South, whose orators kept the fires burning that filled the Federal ranks with soldiers. I have heard it said by some that the Democratic party shall have no part with Mr. Greeley in the conquest; but I feel that they will not be neglected. Not only will Greeley not forget who has helped him to his position, but pledges—direct pledges—have been given us by him that we shall not be forgotten in case of success."

Hodge is an elector for the State at large. Col. U. C. P. Breckenridge said at the same meeting:

"Our part of this bargain is to give the Liberal Republicans our votes, in order to enable them to succeed in the undertaking. Their part of the bargin is to restore to power the now franchised sons of the South, to drive out of the temple these vandals and thieves, and to restore you, Democrats, to their positions. They are to give you, men of the South, those places which the men of the dominant party now hold. I don't care a picayune for Horace Greeley, or what he has said. He represents the dawn of a new era to us, an era that will restore us to power. Will that not be victory enough for us? It may be, in the words of a friend from Woodford, Blackburn, that "Greeley is purgatory, but Grant is hell." The election of Greeley also means that the Federal soldiers, who now stand as a perpetual menace over the South, shall be removed. I am tired of seeing them here. They have no business here. This is not the place for them. I don't want to vote any longer under the shadow of bayonets. I want them out West, where they ought to be.—Times."

An Appeal to Colored Voters.

BY FREDRICK DOUGLASS.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Aug. 9, 1872.

Colored Fellow-Citizens:

In view of the insidious and dangerous advice and counsel of Mr. Sumner, I think it is my duty to set forth a few urgent reasons why we, as a race and as fellow-citizens, all bound up in the same interest, cannot and should not vote for Greeley and Brown, but that to a man, we should cast our whole weight into the scale for Grant and Wilson.

First—We in the south have been liberated from slavery by the direct agency of the Republican Party. Had Greeley been President instead of Lincoln, we would today have been in a worse bondage under the Slave Republic of the Southern Confederate States than ever before. Greeley advocated this policy and did his best to establish the Republic of which slavery was to be the chief corner-stone.

Second—Our first vote was cast as freedmen for Grant in 1868. Have we been disappointed in the result of his Administration? Previous to that period you had no vote. Now we have equal rights (or almost equal rights) with the white race. We can accumulate property as they do; we have the law's protection over us as they have; our marital relations respected; our wives and children are our own and not the property of others; we can testify in every Court; we have the right if we have the power to have our brethren elected to the Senate and Congress of the country; we are a power that is felt; we hold the balance of power in America; no corrupt or vascillating man can be elected to the Presidential chair unless we consent to vote for him.

Third—All this has occurred since '65. and chiefly since we cast our vote for Grant in '68. Are we prepared to risk the abandonment of these great privileges and blessings, and vote for a man who believes that any State may dissolve from the Union when she sees fit, or pass such laws as may seem to her best? Are we prepared to vote for the nominees of the Democratic Party, whose hearts never have changed toward us, who kept us in slavery as long as they had the power, and who if they had the power again would (to say the least of it) do their very utmost to restrict our liberties and oppress us as of old. Mr. Sumner may deceive himself; he cannot deceive us; or, to use the language of the gentleman, Mr. James R. Doolittle, Chairman of the Convention which nominated Mr. Greeley, one of the objects of the nomination being the "overthrow of the negro supremacy." And forsooth, what is this supremacy they so much wish to overthrow? It is simply the cancellation of those ordinary privileges and blessings, enumerated in clause second. We have no supremacy, and never expect to have, nor intend to try for.

Fourth—In conclusion: Be not deceived!! With Grant, our security is unquestionable; our happiness will be made lasting. With Greeley, we would enter upon a sea of trouble—an unknown and anxious future. Unscrupulous advisers would be his friends. Our old foes would surround him, as they even do now; and even if a few stanch friends should endeavor to stem the coming troubles, they would be swept away with the torrent, and the great work of the Republican Party prove an abortion. It cannot be that we will send one vote out of our entire midst to help bring about such dire results, and I pray God that, when the time comes, every man of our race will be found true to the cause of human rights to all.

Leap-Year Felicities.

"Eli Perkins" has undergone matrimonial proposals at the hands of one of his lady friends, and he has this to say about it:

First I called upon my liquid-eye brunette friend, Miss Sallie Morris, of Madison Avenue. Now I've spent a good deal of money on Miss Sallie for operas, bouquets, Delmonico lunches, etc. I've been trying for two years to win her affections.

Last night, full of love and hope, I rang old Morris' door-bell. In a moment Miss Sallie was by myself on the retired sofa. After speaking of the coming opera I felt her velvety hands touch mine.

"Do you know, Mr. Perkins," she said, looking me straight in the face, "that to-day is our proposing day?"

"Well, I suppose so," I remarked, looking modestly down at her mosaic bracelet.

"Well, you know, Eli, my dear Eli, that I have been out with you a good deal."

"Yes," I replied beginning to feel embarrassed.

"You know, my dear," she said, taking both of my hands, "that it is costing me a good deal for dresses and gloves, and"—

"And costing me a good deal for carriages, bouquets and Delmonico lunches," I interrupted, with increased embarrassment.

"And while I have enjoyed myself all winter going with you, Eli"—

"In expensive carriages to the Academy and Delmonico's," I suggested.

"Yes, while I have been happy to go there with you—I feel—I feel—Oh my dear Eli, I don't know how to say what I want to!" and then the beautiful child hid her face in my bosom.

"Do not fear my answer, beautiful one," I said, soothingly. "What is it that weighs upon your sorrowful heart."

"Oh! Eli, it is love," she said, sobbing wildly, and twisting her jewelled fingers in my auburn hair.

"Heaven be praised," I sighed, as I felt the beating of her heart against my vest. "For whom is this love, darling? I asked; "for you know I am deeply interested in you."

"You will not be mad with me, Eli?

"No, sweet one. I shall be only too happy," I said, wiping the tears from my eyes.

"Well my dear—my long-cherished friend, I love"—

"Who dear Sallie—who do you love?"

"Well, Eli, I love Charley Brown, to whom I am engaged;" and then the scalding tears fell thick and fast on my shirt-bosom.

"Well, Sallie, what have you to say to me?" I asked, hesitatingly, as I loosened her hands from my neck.

'Why, my dear Eli, Charley and father thought that I had better see you, and propose"—

"Oh, darling one, I am thine!" I said, with great emotion; "take me as I am; take"—

"But, Eli, let me explain. They wanted me to see you and thank you for your many kindnesses, and propose that you don't come here any more!"

GOOD SENSE.—It will preserve us from censoriousness; it will lead us to distinguish circumstances; keep us from looking after visionary perfection, and make us see things in their proper light. It will lead us to study dispositions, peculiarities, accommodations; to weigh consequences; to determine what to observe and what to pass by; when to be immovable, and when to yield. It will produce good manners, keep us from taking freedoms, and handling things roughly; will never agitate claims of superiority, but teach us to submit ourselves one to another. Good sense will lead persons to regard their own duties rather than to recommend those of others.

☞ Bolting Democratic journals are multiplying. The Terre Haute (Ind.) Journal and the Seymour Democrat, leading journals in Indiana, refuse to support Greeley. The Savannah (Ga.) News, of the same party, says that Grant will beat Greeley 20,000 in that State.

☞ The Democrats of Mifflin county have placed the following ticket in the field: Congress, R. Milton Speer; Assembly, George Bates; Delegate to the Constitutional Convention, Andrew Reed; Sheriff, Seth Benner; Coroner, Geo. Miller; Commissioner, E. C. Kearns; Director of the Poor, James F. M'Near; Auditor, James C. Dysart.

☞ The Chairman of the Republican County Committee has gone to work in good earnest. He will be found at the Headquarters of the Grant and Wilson Club. Now come up and give him a helping hand. We are satisfied that he will do his duty if you will do yours. When he requests you to assist him, go to work and do it. Mr. Tyhurst will make a capital Chairman.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

In another part of to-day's paper will be found a very full report of the proceedings of the Republican County Convencion.—The Convention was one of the most harmonious, orderly, and well conducted that has assembled for years, and consisted of the ablest men in the county. Men, who could, in the main, be relied on to do their duty without fear, affection or favor.

The ticket presented by it is one of the ablest and best that could have been selected, and is as well received as tickets are generally received where there are so many conflicting interests. We congratulate the Republicans of Huntingdon county upon the ticket which is presented to them, and when it is completed by the District nominations, we feel sure that every true Republican will roll up his sleeves and go to work to secure its election by at least one thousand majority!

Republicans, you cannot all be gratified in nominations! This is out of the question! But if you desire the success of the Republican party, yield to the will of those who have out-voted you, and as you desire to be supported when you are nominated over the friends of somebody else, turn in and give them your hearty support. Do as you wish to be done by! If you want to get the support of the Republican party, you, in your turn must stand by it! Organize! Organize!! Organize!!!

PRESIDENT GRANT'S ADMINISTRATION REPUBLICAN NOT PERSONAL.

Chief among the unwarranted assertions in Senator Sumner's attack upon the President is the allegation that he has made his Administration "personal, autocratic, non-Republican." Mr. Sumner asserts that such would be a natural result from the character of the man, saying "to comprehend the personal government that has been installed over us we must know its author." And as if the people of this country did not full well know Ulysses S. Grant, the Senator, slurring over the President's military career and fame, declares it his duty to draw the picture of General Grant "as a civilian," which, summoning the most imaginative powers of his own artistic ability he proceeds to do. The picture does not fail to furnish the people with Charles Sumner's idea as to what sort of men should be considered entitled to places of civil honor and responsibility.—Sure that he can inform the people upon this all-important point, he very appropriately commences by belittling the people themselves.

In an address, commendatory of President Grant, Senator Wilson illustrated the glory of our institutions by referring to the fact that the President had risen to his high position from the humble occupation of a tanner.

This statement Mr. Sumner quotes and sneeringly observes, "such was his preparation to govern the great Republic," &c.

Farmers will do to harrow the stubborn soil; mechanics are well enough for their greasy occupation; soldiers are indispensible to do soldiers' duty and fill soldiers' graves, but these plebians must not aspire to high civil office. "The camp is not the educator of the statesman," says Mr. Sumner.

The burden of his philosophy is that we must have "trained men, statesmen" to fill the civil offices. To be sure we have been somewhat accustomed to elevate our farmers, our mechanics, our great soldiers to places of honor, for which their merits and abilities have seemed, in the uneducated judgment of the people, to commend them; but we have had, and henceforth we must have statesmen. No more of your self-made men! Mr. Sumner says we must have statesmen, so statesmen we will have. "Shoemaker, stick to your last"; attend to your awls and leather apron, and the gentlemen statesmen will take care of the country. If such be not the words, such is precisely the spirit of the pompous Senator's observations. Theoretically he would have no caste, but statesmen should hold the offices.

While, in his wrathful bitterness, the Senator was intent upon his picture of "civilian" Grant, he was unconsciously drawing a far more truthful portrait of himself. In his pitiful endeavor to belittle Grant, by reference to his origin and pursuits, he unintentionally portrayed his own well-known contempt of humble things and his lordly love of pomp, high station, and ancient name.

But the Senator avers that President Grant has established personal government. If it be so then most adroitly has it been accomplished; for the people had not dreamed of such a thing until the Senator proclaimed it. Let us see: Republican government is established "by the people and for the people." Personal government is established by the tyrant and over the people. Republican government is limited and responsible; its powers are separate and co-equal. Personal government is irresponsible, and its powers arbitrary. In accordance with which of these has this Administration acted?

Gen. Grant was elected to execute the laws. He declared his purpose unhesitatingly to do so. Has he not redeemed that pledge? In what direction has he exhibited a tendency to transcend the limits of his Constitutional duties? Has he erected the barrier of his personal will to impede legislation? Has he sought to trammel the deliberations of Congress?—Has he refused his signature to the proper measures, or applied his veto to the detriment of the public good? Has he failed to recommend provisions for the public weal, or has he recommended measures designed for public injury? Has he endeavored to undermine popular rights? Has he trifled with the sacred name of American citizenship and its guarantees? Has he evinced a disposition to destroy ancient privileges and immunities? Has he openly or covertly entered upon a crusade against the beneficence of the Constitution and its inestimable securities? Has he endeavored to establish caste? Has he disregarded the social proprieties of life? Has he ever turned an unwilling ear to the humblest in the land? Has he failed to see the revenues honestly collected and faithfully appropriated?

If he has not invaded the sphere of the Legislature, if he has not violated the peoples' rights, has he sought to pollute the spotless ermine of the Judiciary? Has he appointed judges for corrupt purposes?—Has he delayed the administration of law or equity? If he has done any or all of these things, why have we not heard the stentorian tones of Mr. Sumner demanding the High Court of Impeachment?

If President Grant has not done these offences, then what becomes of the Senator's sweeping charge?

Personal government always bears its ear-marks. If such a government "has been instituted over us," as the Senator says, then where are the ear-marks? Where are the lace and tinsel, where the courtiers, where the edicts, where the lettre de cachet, where the prostituted judges, where the master's livery, where the invariable indices of personal government? We do not discover them. They do not exist. The Senator has been deceived by a mirage.

President Grant has been true to the whole country; true to every pledge he has made; true to the Republican platform, and true to the Republican party. He has succeeded as a statesman; and, as if it had been specially provided that he should lack no title of the merit he deserves, Senator Sumner himself declares that with Grant's lack of experience, failure and not success might have been anticipated. By so much then is his merit increased.

The President has not only been competent to rule this country, but in the words of Holy Writ, "to teach his Senators wisdom"—at least some of them. He seems to have early learned a lesson which his Senatorial assailant has entirely omitted, namely, that it is "a proud heart that stirreth up strife" and that "he that ruleth his own spirit is better than he that taketh a city." Grant has done both: the Senator neither.

THE STATE TICKET.

The various sensational reports about meetings, here and elsewhere, says the North American, in which the withdrawal of General Hartranft from the State ticket is considered, indicate nothing more important than the desire of Democratic leaders that such withdrawal may take place. If the Republican press of the State may be taken as authority, the opposition to General Hartranft is no more formidable than it would be to almost any other candidate the Republicans might name. The Democrats, as a party, are, of course, in vigorous opposition, and so would they be in any case.

Any party, if ordinarily wise, will not neglect to learn even of its opponents; and the wisdom likely to be gained by observing the Democracy is the fidelity with which that party generally cleaves to its standard-bearers. In some respects a more objectionable candidate could not be presented to the people of Pennsylvania than he who heads the Democratic ticket for Governor. His war record ought to render his election impossible. On the other hand, the civil and military life, has yet to be impeached either of dishonesty or of treason. We do not say that Mr. Buckalew was guiltv of treason, because that crime has no definitive quantity in this country, the Constitution to the contrary notwithstanding. But Mr. Buckalew, about the time that General Hartranft was risking his life in the field, was secretly engaged in counselling with Jacob Thompson and other arch rebels in the interest of disunion. So much seems as certain as the facts of history can well make it. The fact, that Mr. Buckalew was counselling with rebel emissaries during the darkest period of the civil war, was not announced at the time. Why? Mr. Greeley did not conceal the fact of his relations with Jacob Thompson, George Sanders, and others, on the same occasion; why should Mr. Buckalew have hidden his share in that miserable business? Mr. Buckalew is simply a politician, and, save a single crotchet, a partisan politician at that. The people have to choose between him and General Hartranft. In choosing they cannot ignore the part these men played in the war for national existence respectively. We do not state the case too strongly when we say that no man who held secret communication with rebel emmissaries during any period of the war is fit to occupy the executive chair of this Commonwealth. The people, we presume, will take a similar view of the matter.

HIS ENEMY SPEAKS WELL OF HIM.

The North American makes the following excellent point: While past conduct, conviction and interest all unite to swell the Republican vote in this State at both of the coming elections, and pare from the Democratic what it cannot afford to lose, the indications are abundant that this will be the case. The brilliant record and public services of Gen. Hartranft, so worthily recognized by the party, have the singular good fortune of being recognized too by his opponent. Before his own nomination was contemplated, Mr. Buckalew said;

"I know General Hartranft well, both as a public officer and a man. As Auditor General he has shown himself a most faithful, upright, efficient and accommodating officer, and he would make an excellent Governor."

This is a complete endorsement, and its fulness and frankness awakens regret that it cannot be returned in kind. But, mindful of the uncontradicted charges of associating with the traitors Holcombe and Thompson, in Canada; of opposing the very action for the Union in and by which General Hartranft won his laurels; of obstructing all national movements that were seeking to crush rebellion; of advocating measures now that are in part dangerous and wholly undesirsble, Mr. Buckalew's commendations of General Hartranft must be accepted with thanks and without rejoinder. It is not often that a candidate, approved by his personal and political records and the voice of his party, adds to these the certificate of his opponent. This is General Hartranft's deserved good fortune.

☞ The JOURNAL will be furnished to new subscribers from this date until the 10th of November, (close of campaign,) for 50 cents. tf.

☞ The Standard misrepresents us when it says the substance of our article was that "an editor, by virtue of his profession, is at liberty to make the foulest charges against such of his fellow-citizens as may be candidates for public office."—Neither our article, nor our views, admit of such a construction. No, no! On the other hand we believe that no respectable editor will make charges against any individual which are not based upon substantial facts. But when such charges are made, however, would it not be more manly, more sensible, more in accordance with the intelligent age in which we live, to disprove them, than to shirk them and divert attention from them, by applying approbious epithets and titles, and libelling and slandering the editor who makes them? Does it not seem childish and unmanly to do so? Does it not exhibit a feeble and pettish and effeminate disposition? Is it creditable to journalism? We always make a due allowance for aged ladies and little children; but we expect dignified and cultured gentlemen, like the editor of the Standard, to stand up for the dignity of the profession.

☞ We take great pleasure in saying that H. H. Mateer, Esq., of Brady, who was Permanent Chairman of the Republican County Convention, deserves the thanks of the entire Republican Party, for the able and satisfactory manner he discharged his duties. He pleased everybody.

☞ The Philadelphia Press, of Saturday last, makes the statement that Gen. Hartranft's vote, in this county, will be a thousand less than that given him for Auditor General. THE STATEMENT IS FALSE IN EVERY PARTICULAR. Who is the author of this brazen falsehood? Trot him out, Mr. Press, or we will believe the statement to have been manufactured to order. We challenge the author of it to name twelve Republicans in the county, of character and standing, who will vote against General Hartranft on the ground that he is not a proper candidate. The Republicans of Huntingdon county are alive as they never have been before, and they will give an increased majority over last year, at the October election, as sure as the sun will rise and set!

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE.—The undersigned will sell, at private sale, the valuable farm upon which he now resides, situate in Brady township, Huntingdon county, containing 228 acres of limestone land, about 150 of which are cleared and in a high state of cultivation, and the balance in good timber. The improvements are a large new brick house, 35x40 feet, a good tenant house, a bank barn, corn crib, smoke house, and all other necessary outbuildings. Also, a young orchard of 100 trees, just beginning to bear, and a never failing spring of water at the door, together with a running stream of water through the premises. For further particulars, call upon the undersigned, on the premises, or address him at Airy Dale. ISAAC OTENKIRK. July 31-2mos*

FARMERS, ATTENTION! The undersigned, having been appointed Agent for the sale of the GEISER GRAIN SEPARATOR, in the south-eastern portions of Huntingdon and Blair counties, and the western portion of Mifflin county, takes pleasure in offering this superior machine to the farmers residing within these limits. This machine is conveniently arranged for hauling and threshing, being permanently fixed on wheels. One man can easily move or shift it about, so that it is not half the trouble on a barn floor as a common thresher and shaker. It is also easily put in operation, is simple, easily managed, reliable, durable, and superior to any other thresher now offered. For particulars, address the undersigned, at James Creek P. O., Huntingdon county, Pa. HENRY BRUMBAUGH. June 26, 1872-3m.

Brief Mention--Home-Made and Stolen

Send us local news.

Politics were trump last week.

Corn fields are visited by thieves.

Johnstown has a female physician.

Bogus five cent pieces are in circulation.

Court was rather slimly attended last week.

Enthusiastically received—The county ticket.

One hearty laugh is better than a bucketful of tears.

Lewistown is erecting a new Roman Catholic church.

Flourishing—The Grant and Wilson Club in this place.

The passenger business was good on Broad Top on Sunday.

Apples are selling in the Carlisle market at four cents a peck.

A Grant and Wilson Club has been organized at Shade Gap. Next.

A pressure of local matter interferes with our usual editorial variety.

The crowd that got in at Tatesville, on Sunday, knew all about whisky.

Young America are jubilant over the prospective circus and menagerie.

There were about two thousand persons at Bloody Run camp, on Sunday.

D. S. Elliott, Esq., of the Bedford County Press, knows how to run a hotel.

A feline exhibition came off in front of the postoffice on Sunday morning. 'Scat!

Our junior imp of darkness has one of Job's comforters in the region of his coat tails.

Plums are selling at sixteen cents a quart. We want to buy some, but not at that price.

Beware of the young lady who calls you by your christian name the first time she meets you.

Room could have been made for one more passenger on the camp-meeting train on Sunday.

We are indebted to our young friend, G. Taylor Simonton, for a batch of Western papers.

The boys who run the Temperance machine, on last Thursday, after the nomination, looked a little White.

The J. V. C. M. A. closed their camp on last Friday morning. The success was much better than expected.

On a high—Shrom, the other day, when finishing the apex of the tower of the new Presbyterian church.

Two are company and three are a crowd—for further particulars ask at the store opposite Broad Top Corner.

It is predicted that the sewer on Fifth street will be completed by the first fall of snow, but we can hardly believe it.

Some of the delegates to the Temperance Convention were very much dis-Guss-ted with the manner of procedure.

The potato bugs, the vilest buggers known hereaways, have played sad havoc with the potato tops here and there.

The young lady who did so much scratching, at "bush meeting," on Sunday evening, must have "Scotch fiddle."

The "bush meeting" of our colored friends, in McCahan's woods, on Sunday last, was well attended, and the order good.

The party who said the Temperance Convention did not consist of over a Bakers' dozen was not far from the truth.

Saxton's artist has a very delicate sense of smell. It is a big undertaking, however, to supply a whole car with cologne.

The person who never sees the point of a joke until it is driven through his obtuseness with a sledge has been heard from.

Our young friend, A. P. W. Johnston, Esq., has hung out his shingle, and is ready to accommodate all who need his services.

Messrs. Diggins, Flenner & Co. are building a new steam saw mill at Broad Top City. It will add very much to those "Diggins."

Beauties often die old maids. They set such a value on themselves that they don't find a purchaser before the market closes.

The Labor Reformers hold forth this week. After this—nothing comes save Liberal Republicans, and they amount to about that.

If there had been a few more Conventions last week the necessity for a new Town Hall would have been more fully demonstrated.

Nick Isenberg told the Democratic Convention some exhilarating things. He thought, with Greeley, they "had a good thing of it."

New subscribers are still rolling in, and we ain't "forcing" the Journal either. Two dollars per annum, or fifty cents for the campaign.

The Democratic editors have not got done eating their "crow" of several weeks ago.—North Carolina, to them, is a very black bird.

Money failed to come in as rapidly as we expected last week. Our receipts were not enough to run our establishment during Court-Pay up!

Mr. Benjamin Sprankle, of Spruce Creek, this season, raised fifty bushels of Early Rose potatoes from one bushel of seed. Who can beat it?

The new postal cards will be three inches wide and five and one-fourth long, the stamp and lines to be engraved on them in a variety of colors.

E. F. Keever, Esq., General Freight Agent for the Broad Top Railroad, is at his post again, looking much improved. We welcome him back.

All the comfort, which our interesting young friend, McNeil, received from the Temperance Convention is to be found in "Greenland's icy mountains."

Dr. Guss, after all his sacrifices of time and money, was ignored, on last Thursday, by the boys who ran the Temperance machine. What ingratitude!

One of the members of the Democratic Convention said that the Court House was a disgrace to Huntingdon county. That delegate's head is level.

The young ladies who gabbled in front of us, at camp, on Sunday, during the entire service, must have thought that we appreciated kitchen affairs.

The Chairman of the Republican County Committee has established his headquarters in the Grant and Wilson Club Room, opposite the Journal office.

With so many Bakers on hand it is a little surprising that the Temperance Convention should have declared Dr. Guss' legislative cake (aspirations) all dough.

One of the people's Colleges, on the train South, on Sunday, was the observed of all observers. How sweet the pair were! They were a pleasant sight to the widowers.

Why cannot railroad companies attach parlor cars to all trains? Passengers should have first-class accommodations, at all times, if they are willing to pay for them.

Isenberg told the Democratic Convention that he could not, in fifteen minutes, tell all he knew about Greeley. Greeley might tell, in a less time, all he knows about Isenberg.

When Supervisor Preston goes out now he always has company. The bachelor has taken unto himself a helpmeet. Well done thou good and faithful servant. Clear the track for the special train!

It was interesting, and sometimes not a little amusing, to see the "cut and dry" resolutions pop out of the pockets of the delegates to the Democratic Convention, where they had been Speer-ited away.

Col. McFarland, the philanthropic editor of the Vindicator, was in town, on last Thursday, looking after the interests of the Temperance cause. He is the most unselfish philanthropist (?) of the nineteenth century!

"We have thrown more offices over our shoulder,"—Lewis.

Well, there's richness for you. Dad Lewis "throwing offices over his shoulder"! He don't exert his muscle much in getting them over. Not much!

Oh, how sad-looking and long were the visages of the nominationists who failed to secure Temperance nominations! They reminded us of the inexpressively long countenance of a venerable old mule, looking out of a canal boat, down at the wharf, the other day. The enthusiasm was all knocked out of them.

News of the Neighborhood.—

Altoona policemen are again up to their ears in business.

The work on the Bloomfield railroad is being pushed rapidly forward by Col. Lemon.

The members of the Church of God, at Roaring Spring, propose to erect a house of worship immediately.

The fruit trees in many sections of the county require proping up to prevent the limbs from breaking down.

Two hardened villains recently stole the bible from the McConnellsburg Presbyterian Church and sold it for whiskey.

The Blair county Democrats will hold their County Convention, in the Court House, in Hollidaysburg, on Tuesday, September 3d, 1872 at 11 o'clock A. M.

Mr. James McIntyre, of Newry, is the happy father of three babies, two girls and a boy, which were presented to him by his better half, a couple of weeks ago.

A young lady named Kate Markle, residing near Bellefonte, fell from a swing on Tuesday evening of last week and broke both her legs.—The Watchman says her recovery is doubtful.

The steam saw mill of A. A. Barker & Son, three miles from Ebensburg, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning of last week. Loss $5,000. Insured for $2,000 in the Andes, of Cincinnati.

George Lockard, of Martinsburg, recently attempted to scare a dog with a loaded pistol. The pistol was accidently discharged. George is now suffering from a painful wound between his thumb and fore-finger.

Some boys attempted to fire two buildings on the new school lot at Lewistown, on Thursday evening, one of which had just been vacated. The other was still tenanted by young Leper, who discovered the fire and put it out.

One night last week some thief made away with a horse of Mr. G. D. Trout, living at Spring Mills, Bedford county. We understand that Mr. T. has offered a reward of $150 for the arrest of the thief and recovery of the horse.

Last Friday afternoon, as Jacob Lemon was leading his horse out of the stable of the Central Hotel, in Patterson, the horse took a vicious spell, reared on his master, struck him to the floor, hurting him severely in his face and on his body.

A little two-year old child of Alexander Agnew, of Bedford, was badly scalded on Friday last, by falling backward into a kettle of hot water. Though seriously scalded, the child is now in a fair way for recovery without suffering any permanent injury.

The limits of the borough of Bedford, were never extended (except to take in the Union School building and ground) from the time it was first laid out in June 1766 until last April, a period of almost 106 years. It is about time the old town should begin to spread herself.

We regret to note that the steam saw mill owned by Gen. B. F. Bell, and situated at Bell's Mills, Blair county, was totally consumed by fire about five o'clock on Thursday morning last. It is supposed that the fire was the work of incendiaries. The loss amounts to $3,500 on which there is no insurance. The General has commenced the erection of a new mill.

A large number of ladies and gentleman assembled in the dining room of the National House, at Lewistown, Pa., on Saturday evening last to witness the presentation of a box of beautiful drafting instruments to Mr. W. H. Brown, late Superintendent, and a gold chain to Mr. C. L. Bretz, Train Master, on the part of the employes and business men along the line of the Lewistown Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

A Frightful Accident and Miraculous Escape.

—On the 6th inst., as the funeral procession was conveying Daniel Turner from his late residence, in Hare's Valley, to his last resting place, in Trough Creek Valley, Hon. Judge Clarkson (who for thirty years or more has been undertaker in this neighborhood, and who has doubtless traveled many thousand miles with his hearse without accident) was driving in front of the procession, about a half mile from the residence of the deceased. While crossing a high braker in the road one of the traces of the harness broke, which frightened his horse, and with one bound brought the Judge right on his feet in the rear of the horse, inside the shaves—the horse pulling by the holding-back strap. His constant rearing and leaping immediately brought the Judge full length on the ground, and having a tight hold of the lines he held on until dragged a considerable distance, when his hold gave way, and the hearse passed over him.—The horse, still speeding on at a rapid rate, brought the hearse against a tree, breaking a wheel and the coupling, leaving the hind-carriage and corpse on its side, and strange to say the coffin was scarcely moved from its fastening, while its occupant, always upright and honorable in all his doings, and who has left to his friends the odor of an unblemished character, remained unmoved and undisturbed as when kind friends first placed him in his winding sheet. The people in procession were much alarmed and ran at once to the assistance of the Judge, expecting to find him dead. He, however, gathered himself up, nearly minus coat and pants, with watch trailing by the chain. The Judge was considerably bruised and sprained, but not seriously. The coffin was placed in a spring-wagon, and the Judge, receiving his horse, rode home, procured a change of clothing, hitched to his carriage and went on and attended the funeral, and is still improving from his injuries.

The Grand Central Park Menagerie and Circus.

—Our readers will see by an advertisement in another column that this first class, and extensive combination of animal display and arenic exhibition, will visit Huntingdon, and give two entertainments on Wednesday the 28th inst. There can be no doubt as to the general excellence of this mammoth show, for it visits our town endorsed in the most eloquent possible maner as an exhibition worthy of patronage, and faithfuly fulfilling all the promises of its advertisements and pictorial posters.

The grand street procession will be given about 9 o'clock on the morning of the exhibition. The Huntingdon & Broad Top Railroad will run special excursion trains for the accommodation of all who reside on the line of their road, to enable parties to visit either the afternoon or evening entertainment. Remember, Wednesday, August 28th., is the day and date.

The Pittsburgh journals teem with flattering encomiums of this combination. We have only space to quote an article from a couple of them. The Dispatch says:

The first two exhibitions of the Mammoth Central Park Menagerie and Circus in this locality were given at Union Park, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon and evening, and both were attended by thousands of our citizens. The show beyond question is one of the best that has been in this city for years. The menagerie is much better than any we have ever seen, but a great objection, and one we think of much more disadvantage to the management than to the patrons, is the crowded condition of the animals, not that they are over crowded, but by separating them a much larger display might be made than is made, or than many others make who promise more. Every animal advertised on the bills will be found on exhibition, but in many instances there are two and three in one cage. The bird show comprises one of the finest collections of rare specimens of the feathered tribe ever exhibited in this country. Parents should not fail to take their children to see this fine collection of living animals and birds as they will learn more natural history in an hour or two at this exhibition than they would acquire by years of reading.

The arena exhibition is really grand and in some respects, unequalled by any other show in the country, as it comprises some of the best talent in the world. Mademoiselle Cordelia, the bareback equestrian, is one of the most fearless and daring riders we have ever seen, not even excepting James Robinson or any other. She is young, handsome, dashing and brilliant and performs all her feats of equestrianism with an ease and grace that challenge competition. Miss Minnie Perry is another brilliant star in the equestrian horizon, who rides with a dash and spirit seldom witnessed. Mr. E. W. Perry in his four horse and Master Willie O. Dale in his bareback act are unapproachable in their respective lines of business. The Snow brothers, William, Ben and Dan, acrobats and gymnasts, are the best ever seen with a traveling company. These are only a few of the distinctive features of this mammoth exhibition, which should be seen by all our readers to be fully appreciated. The universal verdict of those who attended yesterday and last night was that it was the best show they had ever seen.

The Leader says:

The exhibition given by the Central Park Menagerie and Circus at the Union Park, Allegheny city, yesterday, attracted thousands of visitors, the evening entertainment especially having an audience the mammoth circus tent seated comfortably, but it required judicious ushering to accomplish this. We have no hesitation in declaring this exhibition to be the best of the kind that has visited this place for many years, better than Forpaugh's, for the arena performance excels that of the forementioned showman by odds, and the collection of animals is more rare and better preserved. Though a less costly concern than Barnum's a visit affords one more pleasure, for that which is exhibited is pleasant to look upon, inasmuch as it is new and novel. It is a show shorn of the weighty rubbish that accompanies circuses like Forepaugh's and Barnum's for the purpose of making a big display at little cost, to the sacrifice of the spectators' patience and humor. The arena performance of the combination now exhibiting in the city has all originality of Lent's circus, all the tidiness of that old establishment, and on a par with it in novelties and the finish of its entertainment. The menagerie is unquestionably the best ever brought here. The animals of rare species are bright in eye, fine in form, healthy and vigorous. This exhibition no one would regret the time and expense in visiting, as it is one of the few folks leave with feelings of satisfaction.

Court Proceedings—Quarter Sessions.

—Commonwealth vs. Isaac Edwards and Ellen Edwards. Indictment, keeping a disorderly house.

The parties in this prosecution are not unknown to the Sessions Record. Isaac Edwards, one of the defendants, is a representative of the Anglo Saxon race, and with his wife, Ellen—a lady of African extraction—occupied a shanty in the northwestern part of this town. The offence alleged in the indictment was upon information of some of their neighbors, that their slumbers had at sundry times been broken in upon by serious, and oft repeated broils, or revels, carried on in the aforesaid dwelling, participated in by various individuals, of different races, colors and nationalities, mingled with certain opprobrious and rather uncomplimentary epithets passing between Isaac and his wife, indicating that the conjugal relations between them were not of the most amiable character. The defense consisted in the testimony of Isaac himself, who stated that the trouble complained of, had originated in an attempt made by him to protect the honor of his family and the reputation of his house, by ejecting from his premises an intruder, whose basilisk touch and insidious advancements, accompanied by the persuasive arguments of a bottle of whisky, had made fearful encroachments upon the virtue and fidelity of his wife Ellen, and proved highly destructive to his domestic happiness. The Jury failed however, to see the situation in the same light, and accordingly a verdict of guilty was rendered. Blair for defendants.

Sentence. Both to go to jail ten days, and pay a fine of $1 each and costs of prosecution.

Com. vs. George H. Lang. Indictment, selling liquor without license.

The defendant in this case failed to appear and forfeited his recognizance but was afterwards brought into Court on a Bench warrant, and placed on trial. Verdict guilty in manner and form as indicted. Mattern and Baily for defendant.

Com. vs. Harmon Yocum.

The defendant in this action was brought into Court on surety of the peace, on oath of Andrew Johnston, for shooting a dog, making threats, &c. The parties were sentenced to pay, each one-half the costs, and stand bound by their own recognizance to keep the peace, one toward the other. Lytle for prosecution. Petrikin for defendant.

Com. vs. Daniel Montgomery. Indictment, assault and battery.

Defendant plead guilty and submitted. Sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs of prosecution.

Com. vs. Joseph Woods and Wm. Mutersbaugh. Assault and battery on oath of Samuel Huff, who charged the defendants with coming to his house, driving cattle into his premises, abusing his wife, and other mischievous and wicked acts. Verdict not guilty, and the prosecutor, and Woods one of the defendants, to pay each one-half the costs. Speer and Lytle for the Commonwealth.—Petriken for defendants.

Com. vs. Henry Snyder.

The defendant in this case was arraigned before a jury of his peers, for attempting to open a store at Mill Creek, which ordinarily is considered a legitimate branch of business. The difficulty, however, arose from the fact that he had inadvertently used a file, chisel, and other implements, in opening it, which was still further aggravated by the fact that the store happened to belong to another person, a difficulty which it seems the jury were unable to reconcile, and accordingly a verdict was rendered of guilty of burglarious entrance.

Sentenced to one year imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary, and pay a fine of $1 and costs.

Com. vs. John E. Davis. Indictment, fornication and bastardy.

The only importance attached to this case consisted in the fact that it was the first one tried in this Court under the present law allowing parties, on trial for certain misdemeanors, to testify in their own behalf. The result was a verdict against the defendant, followed by the usual order. Lytle for prosecution. Speer for defendant.

Com. vs. Wm. F. Brooks. Indictment, fornication and bastardy.

Defendant plead guilty and submitted. Sentenced to pay Elizabeth Winton $30 lying in expenses, $1 per week for seven years, from April 6, 1872, $5 fine and costs, and surety in $500, and stands committed.

The case of Susan Dunlap, charged with the murder of her mother-in-law, at Mapleton, by poisoning, was continued for the present, no analyzation having been made of the stomach of deceased.

Court, court, next week, next week! Folks attending court should avail themselves of the opportunity of examining the large stock of goods at Henry & Co's. consisting in Salt, Iron, Nails, Dry-Goods, Groceries, Hats, Boots, Shoes, Coal and Lumber, &c., &c.

Contestants appeared from the following districts: Carbon, Juniata and Shirleysburg borough.

Dr. M'Pherran, of Alexandria, immediately upon the completion of Roll call moved that a committee of three be appointed on contested seats. This resolution was severely resisted on the ground that it was a departure from well established precedents, but on a final vote it was adopted.

The Chair appointed Dr. James M. M'Pherran, of Alexandria, Alex. Elliott, of Huntingdon and David Grove, of Henderson, said committee.

The Convention then took a recess of ten minutes.

At the expiration of the recess the Committee on Contested Seats reported in favor of the delegates named in the above list, and, on motion, the report was adopted.

An effort was then made to proceed to the election of a Permanent Chairman, but a motion to adjourn to half-past one o'clock was adopted. Adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 1:30 o'clock the Convention was called to order by the Chairman of the County Committee, K. Allen Lovell, Esq.

The Roll was called and a full Convention found to be present.

The election of a Permanent Chairman was declared to be the first business in order.

The following gentlemen were placed in nomination and the nominations closed: S. T Brown, of Huntingdon and H. H. Mateer, of Brady.

On motion of J. S. Bare, of Mt. Union borough, it was resolved that the vote be taken by marking, which resulted as follows:

Mateer	46
Brown	35

The President appointed Mr. Brown a committee of one to conduct Mr. Mateer to the Chair.

Mr. Mateer, in a very appropriate manner, thanked the Convention for its confidence and the honor conferred upon him.

On motion of S. T. Brown, Esq., of Huntingdon, the Secretaries were continued.

On motion of Robert M'Divitt, of Oneida, it was

Resolved, That the Convention now proceed to the nomination of a ticket in the order stated in the call for the Convention.

Adopted.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Convention proceeded to the selection of the choice of Huntingdon county for Congress, and the candidate selected have power to choose his own Conferees. Adopted.

Nominations being declared in order, the following gentlemen were placed in nomination:

CONGRESS.

Mr. J. E. Glasgow nominated Prof. A. L. Guss, of Cassville. Mr. K. Allen Lovell, of Huntingdon, nominated H. S. Wharton, Esq., of Huntingdon. John T. Dopp, of Petersburg, (we think,) nominated Hon. S. S. Blair, of Hollidaysburg.

The nominations were then closed.

Mr. King, of Huntingdon, asked and obtained permission to read a letter from Henry S. Wharton, Esq., addressed to the members of the Convention, expressing his earnest wishes for the nomination of a ticket that would give satisfaction to the entire Republican party, and withdrawing his name.

A motion was made accepting the letter and directing it to be entered upon the minutes, but objection was urged against this, on the ground, that it contained a personal reflection and the motion was withdrawn.

The Convention then proceeded to ballot, with the following result:

A. L. Guss,	43 votes.
S. S. Blair,	39 "

A. L. Guss having received a majority of the votes cast, was declared the choice of Huntingdon county.

ASSEMBLY.

Nominations for Legislature were next declared in order, and the following gentlemen were placed in nomination, with the following result:

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.	4th.
F. H. Lane, Shirley,	34	36	38	41
H. C. Marshall, Mt. Union,	18	19	41	39
J. W. Mattern, Huntingdon,	13	10	off.
E. A. Green, Brady,	9	13	3	fio.
D. R. Fry, Warriorsmark,	4	off.

F. H. Lane having received a majority of all the votes cast, was declared the nominee for the Assembly.

PROTHONOTARY.

The following nominations were immediately named for Prothonotary, with the annexed result:

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.	4th.
W. B. Zeigler, Huntingdon,	11	10	off.
S. L. Glasgow, Three Springs,	31	33	40	40
T. W. Myton, Huntingdon,	34	35	42	42
J. W. Scott, Shade Gap,	6	4	off.

There having been some doubt in regard to the third ballot, it was repeated with the same result. T. W. Myton having received a majority of the votes of the Convention, was declared nominated.

REGISTER AND RECORDER.

The Chair declared the nomination of Register and Recorder next in order. The following gentlemen were placed in nomination with the following result:

	1st.	2d.	3d.	4th.	5th.	6th.	7th.
J H Davis, Morris,	6	6	off.
Jas M'Elroy, Porter	8	8	11	off.
P S Fouse, Hunt'dn	8	9	9	off.
Wm Lightner, West	11	12	13	16	23	27	43
Wm H M'Donald,	4	6	off.
Wm Spanogle,	13	12	15	15	16	off.
S B Taylor, Hunt'n.	6	2	off.
Samuel Weight,	12	12	18	25	19	32	38
Albert Tyhurst,	7	10	16	19	22	23	off.

William Lightner having received a majority of all the votes cast, was declared the nominee for Register and Recorder.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Nominations for District Attorney were next in order, and the following gentlemen were placed in nomination, with the following result:

	1st.	2nd.
H C Madden, Huntingdon,	41	42
J. Hall Musser, "	26	39
J. Sylvanus Blair, "	14	off.

Mr. Madden was declared the nominee of the party for District Attorney.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

Nominations were immediately made for County Commissioner, with result stated below:

	1st.	2nd.	3th.	4th.
David Hare, Porter,	16	27	31	42
Tobias Foreman,	11	off
Richard Chilcott, Huntingdon,	16	8	off.
J. Q. Adams, Franklin,	14	21	24	off.
John S. Warfel, Henderson,	3	off.
Jacob Chilcote,	21	24	26	38

David Hare was pronounced the nominee for County Commissioner.

POOR DIRECTOR.

Nominations for Poor Director being in order, the following gentlemen were placed in nomination, with the following result:

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.
Michael Kyper, Shirley,	16	26	47
W. P. Greenland, "	32	34	34
A. W. Pheasant,	10	off.
S. C. Smith, Jackson,	24	19	off.

Michael Kyper having received the requisite majority was declared the nominee.

AUDITOR.

The following gentlemen, with the annexed result, were placed in nomination for Auditor:

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.
Barton Greene, Barree	22	26	40
G. W. Shontz, Lincoln,	16	21	off.
H. G. Neff, Porter,	23	29	36
W. L. Mosser, Juniata,	10	off.

Whereupon Barton Green was duly nominated for the office of Auditor.

Robt. M'Divitt, Esq., moved that Dr. John M'Cullough, of Huntingdon, be declared the choice of Huntingdon county, for Delegate to the Constitutional Convention, with power to appoint his own Conferees.

S. T. Brown, Esq., moved to strike out the name of John M'Cullough, and insert in lieu thereof, that of K. Allen Lovell, Esq.

Mr. Lovell thanked the Convention for naming him in this connection, stating, however, that he was not a candidate, and therefore withdrew his name, and cordially seconded the motion of the gentleman from Oneida, in a pointed and happy speech. The resolution was unanimously carried.

Mr. Lovell nominated Mr. Albert Tyhurst for Chairman of the County Committee, in a telling little speech, and he was appointed to fill that position by acclamation.

On motion, each delegate was permitted to name one member of the County Committee for his own district.

On motion, the thanks of the Convention were tendered to the officers of the Convention.

On motion, adjourned sine die.

Prohibition County Convention.

—Agreeable to a call, numerously signed, a few delegates, numbering perhaps fifteen, met in the Grand Jury room, of the Court House, on Thursday, the 15th instant, at 1.30 o'clock, and were called to order by Dr. Isaac Guss, the Chairman of the Prohibition County Committee. Prayer was offered to the Throne of Grace by the Rev. J. W. Plannett. The Chairman read the call as follows:

HUNTINGDON, PA., June 29, 1872.

The evils resulting from the liquor traffic are palpable to all, and of such a character as to seriously threaten the permanency of our statute books to-day, are those laws which, by the granting of license, virtually sanction the sale and use of that poison, which infatuates and degrades its victims, rendering them incapable of exercising the right function of American citizens. And as our county as well as State and National government is a government of the people, by the people and for the people," and as that government is greatly impaired in its efficacy by the existence of the liquor traffic—a traffic that is ever increasing the pauperism and crime of our country—a traffic which is a crime in the sight of God, and should be so recognized by man—it becomes a fit subject for legislation, demanding absolute prohibition as the only effectual remedy. While Local Option, if fairly tested, may result in much good, and should be favorably recognized by all, yet we have but little assurance that its constitutionality will be maintained, or that it will even be sanctioned by the next legislature, much less enforced by the dominant party, after being carried by a vote of the people. It is at best, but a partial remedy, and is believed to be utterly inadequate to meet the demand of the age for a temperance people.

Well satisfied that existing parties who refuse to make the question an issue will not give the needed relief, the friends of prohibition see no other course open but to organize and vote only for such persons as will support the principle until every position of trust in the gift of the people shall be filled by officers pledged to the total suppression of the dram shop by law.

Being firmly fixed in these convictions, and relying upon Almighty God for aid in our undertaking, we hereby earnestly invite all citizens of Huntingdon county favorable to these views to meet in mass convention at the court house in Huntingdon, on Thursday, August 15th, 1872, at one o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates to be voted for at the ensuing election and of providing for a vigorous canvass of the county in favor of local as well as general prohibition.

By order of the County Committee.

ISAAC GUSS,
J. R. BAKER,
A. C. GREENLAND,
} Sub. Com.

On motion of John W. Scott, Mr. Wm. Baker was chosen temporary Secretary.

The roll was called and about the number above stated answered to their names.

J. R. Baker moved that a committee of five be appointed, by the Chairman, on Platform and Candidates, which was adopted without discussion.

The Chair appointed J. R. Baker, A. C. Greenland, E. P M'Kitrick, E. M. Giles and Rev. J. W. Plannett.

The Chair stated that suggestions, for the various offices to be filled, would be received.

On motion, all resolutions were directed to be referred to the Committee on Platform and Nominations without debate. At this stage of the proceedings considerable disgust began to manifest itself at the manner of doing business and the more influential began to denounce the Convention as a set up job.

On motion, Mr. Fleming called upon all present and asked them to sign a pledge to support the movement.

Mr. Lindsey, J. R. Baker, Greenland, Plannett, Miller and others, pro and con, criticised and defended the movement.

Mr. John Miller denounced the head and front of the concern with great severity, charging it mith sinister motives, and called for the election of a permanent Chairman.

The Convention then received the following suggestions for the offices for which nominations were to be made.

For Legislature, J. K. Baker nominated J. J. White, of Mapleton; E. M. Giles, Dr. Isaac Guss, of Cassville; and J. J. White, W. R. Baker, of Orbisonia. For Prothonotary, Dr. Isaac Guss nominated A. C. Greenland, of Cassville.

Rev. Mr. Plannett here stated that he was opposed to nominating a county ticket; that it was inexpedient and injudicious at this time, and that holding these views he would be obliged to withdraw from the committee upon which he had been placed.

J. K. Baker in a peculiar voice, attempted to reply to Mr. Plannett.

Mr. Miller denounced the manner of procedure, the movement and demanded the election of a permanent Chairman.

On motion of J. R. Baker, the Convention, which had now become a mere farce, proceeded to the election of a permanent Chairman. Messrs. Guss, Swoope and Giles were placed in nomination. Guss received thirteen votes, and each of the others received one.

On motion, J. R. Baker was made permanent Secretary.

On motion of J. R. Baker, the business transacted up to this point was ratified.

Here Col. M'Farland, of Harrisburg, asked permission to say a few words, which was granted. In the course of his remarks he reflected upon those who could not sanction the movement, attributing to them the wiles of politicians. Mr. Plannett hurled back indignantly and properly the imputation which had been made, and asserted his honesty of purpose. Sheriff Neeley went off at a tangent. M'Farland disclaimed, and the matter dropped.

Considerable feeling was manifested that no action was taken on the Congressional question and charges bandied about that the whole thing was a set up job by Mr. Speer; the expression becoming rather strong, a motion was made authorizing the Chair, of course, to appoint three Congressional Conferees. The Chair appointed, A. C. Greenland, J. J. White and Wm. Baker.

Suggestions for nominations were received. For Register and Recorder, F. D. Stevens and Wm. Lightner, of West: for District Attorney, P. M. Lytle, of Huntingdon; for Commissioner, James M. Norris, of Cass and John Whitney, of Tod; Director of the Poor, Geo. W. Cornelius, of Orbisonia and E. M. Giles, of Petersburg; for Auditor, R. S. Henderson, of Mapleton and Isaac Taylor, of Tod.

While these suggestions were being received, some one named Col. J. Hall Musser, for District Attorney, who rose to his feet instantly and denounced the glaring inconsistency of the who were running the machine, stating that the nomination of a ticket was uncalled for, that the Republicans had nominated a Temperance ticket from Congressman to Auditor, that no other ticket was in the field and that in case this Convention nominated a ticket it was for the purpose of taking away votes from temperance men, to elect some whiskey-loving Democrat, and that the whole thing was tho unsuspecting cat's-paw of the whiskey ring. This was the deliberate udgment of everybody, save the few who wanted to be tickled with empty nominations.

The Committee on Platform and Candidates made its appearance and presented the following report:

Resolved, That we fully re-affirm the platform adopted by the National Prohibition Party which met in Columbus, Ohio, February 22, 1872, and will support the candidates of said party.

Resolved, That we endorse the Platform laid down by the State Prohibition Convention meeting in Altoona, Pa., June 14, 1872, and will give our votes for the State Prohibition nominees.

Resolved, That we hold Prohibition to be the only line issue of the day and on that calls for hearty support of all temperance men.

The following were the nominations reported:

Legislature, W. R. Baker, Orbisonia; Prothonotary, A. C. Greenland, Cassville; Register and Recorder, T. D. Stevens, Mt. Union; County Commissioner, John Whitney; Director of the Poor, Geo. W. Cornelius; Auditor, R. S. Henderson, Mapleton.

Prof. Atkinson, of Huntingdon, moved to lay the report of the committe on the table. Yeas and nays were demanded which resulted yeas, 4; nays, 9; so it was negatived.

On motion, the report was adopted.

J. J. White read the following pledge and resolution.

"I hereby accept the nomination of the Prohibitionists of Huntingdon county, and by so doing pledge my earnest efforts to secure the entire suppression of the dram shop by legal enactment efficiently executed."

Resolved, That if candidates to-day nominated shall be found unwilling to subscribe to the above, their places shall be supplied by an executive committee of five to be appointed by the Chair, said committee to have full power to condu

How to Cure Kicking Horses.

A correspondent says that those horses that are disposed to kick in harness may be cured in one half day's time by pursuing the following course:

Have a yard of thirty to one hundred feet square enclosed with a high and strong fence. Lead the horse in the yard; then put on a regular bitting bridle, buckled back very close, so that he can have little or no play with the head; then take a basket and tie it securely to his tail, and just long enough so that his heels, when kicking, will reach it, but not go into it. Now let him kick, mean time talk to him, but at the same time keep out of his way. Should he throw himself, walk up to him, and taking hold of the basket, lay it upon him and all around his heels. After he has lain a little while, loosen one rein of his bitting bridle, and then the other until he can get up.

If again he tries to kick, buckle the bitting reins again, and so keep him until he is quiet. When he shows no further disposition to kick the basket, take it off and put on the harness;—then hook a whiffletree on one tug and lead him around the yard. If he shows no fear of it, hook the other end of it, and let it hit his heels at every step; very soon he will not notice it. Now loosen his bucking lines and letting him have free play of his head, drive him around. If he shows any disposition to kick, buckle up the hitching rein again, and drive him thus awhile longer; then again uncheck him; and so continue to manage until he exhibits no sign of fear or disposition to kick, no matter what may hit his heels.

There are few horses that may not be cured in half a day's time by pursuing the above course. Horses that are disposed to run away whenever anything hits their heels in harness may also be cured in the same manner.

How Money is Made by Farming.

Much labor is done on farms that is not farming in its true sense. By such labor no money is ever made. A man may support himself and his family, keep out of debt, and have a few dollars in pocket by practising the most stringent economy. If he is otherwise than industrious and sober, he is on the down grade with loose brakes, and the end is not reached. But farming in its true sense is a profession equal in dignity to that of law or medicine, and needs equal study, mental capacity, and intelligently directed labor to command success in it. The principle which underlies the practice of the true farmer must be well understood and a steady, consistent course of operations must be followed. Having thoroughly learned the nature and capacity of the soil he possesses, and chosen the rotation most suitable, and the stock to be most profitably kept upon it, he does not swerve from his chosen course, but in good markets and bad, raises his regular crops, and keeps his land in regular increasing fertility. No special cry tempts or frighten him. He does not talk dairy this season or crops the next; but doubtless if any particular product be in demand and brings a good price he has some of it to sell and reaps his share of the advantage. He saves as much money as some men make by care and economy in purchasing and preserving tools, seeds, manure and machines; and his business habits and constant readiness for all occasions give him reasonable security against the effects of adverse seasons and bad weather. Always prepared, he is never too late, and always calm, he is never too soon, and thus, "taking time by the forelock;" he has the stern old tyrant at his command, and turns him at his will. He has no losses, and his gains are steady.—Exchange.

Care of Horses at Night.

Few men who handle horses give proper attention to the feet and legs. Especially is this the case on farms. Much time is spent of a morning in rubbing, brushing and smoothing the hair on the sides and hips, but at no time are the feet examined and properly cared for. Now, be it known, that the feet of a horse require more care than the body. They need ten times as much, for in one respect they are almost the entire horse. All the grooming that can be done won't avail anything if the horse is forced to stand where his feet will be filthy. In this case the feet will become disordered, and then the legs will get badly out of fix; and with bad feet and bad legs, there is not much else of the horse fit for anything. Stable prisons are generally severe on the feet and legs of horses; and unless these buildings can afford a dry room, where a horse can walk around, lie down or roll over, they are not half so healthy and comfortable to the horse as the pasture, and should be avoided by all good hostlers in the country.—North British Review

To Ripen Pears.

To cause pears to color up handsomely, Josiah Hooper, in the Agriculturalist, says; "All that is necessary will be to spread a blanket on the floor of a cool room and then thinly and evenly place the fruit on the floor. A second blanket must be spread over them, and in a short time the effect of this treatment will be apparent in the most golden colored Barletts and rich, ruddy looking Seckels imaginable. Pears perfected in this manner rarely have the mealiness of their naturally ripened companions; nor do they prematurely decay at the core as when left on the trees."

This of course implies that they must be picked in advance of ripening on the tree, the time for which is partly indicated by a readiness to part from the stem which gently lifted, so that some strain is made at a point of junction. The Bartlett will ripen if picked some weeks in advance of ripening on the tree, and even when its growth is not fully attained.

Save your own Clover Seed.

We have just been informed, says the Franklin Patriot, that one of the largest and most enterprising farmers of this country, last year, saved enough clover seed for his own sowing, sold enough to pay for all the dry goods used in his own family, and received $25 in cash in addition. This is the way in which he did it. He put a wire bottom in a trough in which he fed his stock—the wires being two or three inches above the close bottom of the trough. The stock in pulling the clover hay from the racks would scatter the seeds almost pure through the wire into the receptacle below. How easy and simple a way to save hundreds of dollars, now annually sent out of the country. This can be done also by making close floors in your barn lofts. This will be somewhat more expensive, but it will pay for itself in one season.

To Stop Nose Bleeding.—It is worth while to know how to stop bleeding from the nose when it becomes excessive. If it bleeds from the right nostril, pass the finger along the edge of the right jaw till the beating of the artery which supplies blood to that side of the face is felt. Press hard upon it and the bleeding will cease. Continue the pressure five minutes, until the ruptured vessels in the nose have time to contract.

THE MOST VALUABLE PATENTS EVER USED IN PIANO-FORTES.

PATENT ARION.

REVERSED WOODEN AGRAFFE.

THE COMPOUND REST PLANK.

THE FULL IRON FRAME.

AND THE SUSTAINING IRON BAR.

A FEW REASONS

WHY THE

ARION PIANO

IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

The ARION PIANO-FORTE has greater power than any other Piano-Forte manufactured.

It will Stand in Tune Longer, and in its mechanical construction it is more perfect, and, therefore, more durable, than any instrument constructed in the usual modern style.

The arrangement of the Agraffe, the manner of stringing, the peculiar form and arrangement of the Iron Frame

SUPERCEDES ALL OTHERS.

The use of a bar (which is a part of the Iron Frame on a line with the heavy steel stringing,) gives where most needed, and in this respect all other pianoes fail.

The construction of the WREST PLANK, into which the tuning Pins are inserted, is such that it is impossible for the pins to come loosened, or the Wrest Plank itself to split, as is too often the case in other Piano-Fortes.

The Extraordinary Evenness

throughout the scale, the excellent Singing Quality, the

LENGTH AND PURITY OF VIBRATION,

all go to prove what we claim, viz: that the

ARION PIANO-FORTE

Is the Best Instrument Manufactured.

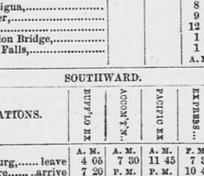
WARNING.



Many Citizens of this county who, had been persuaded to buy other kinds of Sewing Machines, which seemed at first to work well on a tolerable range of work, have expressed to me their regrets that the genuine original Elias Howe Sewing Machine—the best in the world—had not been brought to their notice before purchasing. And judging from the number of offers I have, to trade Howe machines for all other kinds, I estimate that the people of this county have lost more than $26,000 by failing to get, at the first, the genuine Howe Machine. It is made on sound mechanical principles, avoids rickety cog-wheels, and is so constructed as to have perfect control by adjustment, and provision made to restore lost motion when it wears, thereby securing extraordinary durability, and adaptation to the greatest range of work. Now as my traveling agents may not be able to visit every person in time, and as many inferior machines of different kinds are still being urged on the public, I hereby GIVE NOTICE, that before you spend your time or money on any other machine, the safest plan is, either to write to me direct, or inquire of agents for the famous Elias Howe, machine, from Brown's Carpet Store, Huntingdon, Pa., and take no agents word for it, that the machine is genuine, unless it has the medallion at the head of this article, imbedded in the bed plate of every machine.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

DR. CROOK'S COMPOUND

SYRUP OF POKE ROOT.

Wherever Poke Root grows, it has a local reputation as a Blood Purifier, and for the cure of Rheumatism. With all this local reputation, and the praise of distinguished Physicians, (Drs. Coe, Lee, King, Wilson, M. Hunt, Griffits, Copland and others,) who have tested its medical powers; it has been neglected by the profession at large, as much through a want of a proper appreciation of its merits, as a knowledge of the proper way to prepare it for medical use. Dr. Oliver Crook, (a physician who devotes his entire time to the duties of his profession), has fully tested the active medical qualities of Poke Root during the last 25 years, and unhesitatingly pronounces it to have MORE MERIT—for diseases depending on a depraved condition of the blood,—than any and all other articles named in the Materia Medica. Under his instructions our Chemists have combined the active medical qualities of Poke Root with the best Tonic Preparation of Iron, and we offer this preparation to the public under the above name.

A FARM FOR SALE.—A tract of farm and timber land, in Oneida and Henderson townships, 2½ miles from the borough of Huntingdon, is offered for sale, on reasonable terms, containing about ONE HUNDRED ACRES, between 50 and 60 acres of which are cleared and under cultivation. The up land is of a fair grain raising quality with some fifteen acres of fine meadow bottom, and the balance is principally covered with a good quality of timber, mostly white pine and hemlock, with a good saw mill seat, and never failing water power thereon.

The improvements are a neat two-story frame house and frame stable, with other outbuildings and conveniences, and a young thriving orchard of choice fruit trees.

For further particulars, and terms of sale, inquire of the undersigned, at Huntingdon, or on the premises.
